DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

The Applicant's cancellation of claims 1 through 22 on January 27, 2004, and election of claims 23 through 26, is noted by the Examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Schone (6,175,055).

Schone discloses a method of incorporating zeolite into a tampon, as described in column 1, lines 39-42, and column 2, lines 27-29. The method comprises distributing zeolite granules 8 on a first nonwoven web 6 and bonding a second web 6 to the first web, as disclosed in column 2, lines 52-56.

Claim 26 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Thebrin et al. (6,083,347).

Thebrin discloses a method of incorporating zeolite into a tampon, as described in column 3, lines 2-4 and 50. The method comprises suspending zeolite powder in a liquid suspension and dispensing the liquid suspension on an absorbent pad, as disclosed in column 3, lines 11-14. The liquid suspension further comprises a suspension aid, as disclosed in column 3, lines 20-30. The absorbent pad is formed into a tampon, as disclosed in column 3, line 50.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 24 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schone (6,175,055) in view of Kramer et al. (5,165,152).

Schone discloses all aspects of the claimed invention with the exception of the step of cutting the webs prior to forming the tampon. Kramer teaches the method of forming a tampon by cutting a web to form the tampons, as described in column 10, lines 41-48. This method allows for the high-speed mass production of tampons, as described in the Abstract. It would therefore be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to form the tampons of Schone using the step of cutting taught by Kramer to allow for high-speed mass production of the tampons.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 26 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 2, 7, and 11 of U.S. Patent No. 6,635,205. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both methods disclose applying an odor absorbent material to a tampon while the material is in a liquid suspension.
